Lt. T. H. Zee, Head Of Chinese S. V. C. Co. Wins Willys-Knight Car; Capt. S. Smith Wins Dodge Car As Auto Show Closes

Huge Crowd Watches Drawing In Ball Room By Secretary Olsen Of Shanghai Race Club

WINS POPULAR

Big Exposition Brought To Close With Program Of Dancing And Song

Shanghai's first great automotive exposition, the Shanghai Auto Show, which has held the center of public interest for the past ten days, came to a close last night with the award of the two motor cars given to subscribers by THE CHINA PRESS-EVENING STAR as the climatic feature.

The finals came with dramatic interest. While hundreds halted in their dancing and watched in tense silence, Secretary W. L. Olsen of the Shanghai Race Club swung the copper drums which had been placed in the center of the big ballroom annex to the Auto Show, and the lucky subscribers were chosen.

Wild applause greeted the announcement that Acting Commander T. H. Zee of the Chinese Company of the Shanghai Volunteer Corps held the lucky number which took with it the big Willys-Knight touring car given by THE CHINA PRESS. The Dodge touring car given by THE EVENING STAR went to Capt. S. Smith of the Szechuen Steam Navigation Company. Twenty consolation prizes were awarded in similar fashion to subscribers to THE CHINA PRESS-EVENING STAR.

Equalling in size any of the previous throngs that attended the Auto Show an immense gathering that filled the main exhibition hall and packed the ball room to overflowing was present last night for the closing festivities of the big exposition.

Through the early portion of the evening a varied and enjoyable program was given in the intervals between dances and the outstanding feature of the evening was the drawing of the Willys-Knight car, presented by THE CHINA PRESS, and for the Dodge car prseented by THE EVENING STAR.

Long before the drawing was held the interest of the big throng in the ball room focused upon the three copper drums with which the drawing was conducted. They had been placed in the center of the dancing floor just in front of the orchestra.

SPECIAL PROGRAM

For the final occasion a special program of music was given by Harry Kerrey's orchestra and not only was the dancing floor crowded to capacity while the music was in progress, but a packed border of humanity, with hundreds standing, ranged itself around the four walls. It is noteworthy that more Chinese were in evidence last night than on any preceding night of the Show.

Deserving particular mention among the numbers of the program that was given were several selections that were sung by Miss S. Zviagin of Tsingtau. Miss Zviagin is a richly endowed coloratura soprano and the selections she gave were received with storms of applause.

The Auto Show song, 'Goodbye Blues,' the winning song of THE CHINA PRESS-EVENING STAR song contest, was played a number of times in the course of the evening by the orchestra and the fox trot 'Hoot,' second in the contest, also was provided for the dancers.

None of the numerous exhibits had been taken away yesterday and in fact additions had been made in a number of the booths and it is to be added that last night's record of sales compares favorably with the best of the preceding nights.

DRAWING OPENED

The drawing for the two automobiles, the main event of the final night of the big show did not begin until after 11 o'clock. The drawing was conducted by Mr. A. W. Olsen, Secretary of the Shanghai Race Club, who was assisted by Messrs. R. H. Newman and Y. J. Hung.

Before the drawing was started Mr. Leon Friedman, Chairman of the Entertainment Committee of the Auto Show, addressed the

City Is Still Held In Grip Of Small Pox

Despite the thousands of vaccinations given in recent weeks the epidemic of small pox which has been sweeping Shanghai has not been materially checked and the possibility exists that extraordinary measures may be taken by the authorities to meet the situation.

Virtually all of the larger business concerns of the city have taken steps to have all employes safeguarded against the disease by vaccination and physicians continue to point out with every form of emphasis the necessity of the precaution. Of the many cases under treatment at the Isolation Hospital it is stated that but two are persons who have been vaccinated and no vaccinated case yet has proved fatal.

In the past week nine new cases of small pox among foreigners have been reported to the health authorities, according to notice published in the Municipal Gazette and 18 deaths from the disease have occurred among Chinese.

Thirty-three members of THE CHINA PRESS and THE EVENING STAR staffs were vaccinated yesterday afternoon by Dr. W. W. Peter. Dr. Peter is aiding the Y.M.C.A. to vaccinate hundreds daily at the free vaccination station established there. The remaining members of the staffs of the two papers will be vaccinated this afternoon.

Physicians are urging all hongs to see that their Chinese employes are vaccinated as every vaccination means a check upon the spread of the disease.

The Lien Yih Benevolent Association on Wuchow Road has offered to provide free vaccinations to the public on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Anyone wishing to be vaccinated will be attended to without cost.

Two Men Who Brought Peace Out Of Irish Chaos

PREMIER LLOYD GEORGE — EAMONN DE VALERA

FUNDING OF ALLIES' DEBT SOON, URGED BY HARDING

President's Message Asks Passage Of Pending Bill By Congress

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Dec. 6.—President Harding in a wide review of American and world conditions, in the course of his annual message to Congress, dwelt on the desirability of the passage of the bill for the funding and settling of the vast foreign loans due to America.

With regard to the Jones Shipping bill, directing the Executive to terminate all commercial treaties in order to permit the reduction of duties on imports carried in American ships, the President declared that denunciation of the treaties would indescribably add to commercial chaos. He pointed out that the proposed reductions in duties would only benefit dutiable cargoes, while the tonnage of the big mercantile consisted both of free and dutiable goods and foreshadowed that the Government would present another plan for expanding the merchant marine.

The President described the new Tariff Bill as vital for the preservation of many leading American industries.

He recommended the appropriation of 10,000,000 bushels of corn and a million bushels of seed grains for Russian relief.

IN SESSION AGAIN

(Special To The China Press)

Washington, Dec. 6.—Congress reconvened today after a two weeks vacation. The new session is expected to last seven months and will probably handle considerable legislation that will effect the conference.

LIKE RAY OF LIGHT SAYS LI. GEORGE OF ARMS PARLEY

Sends Message To The English Speaking Union In N. Y.

(Reuter's Service)

New York, Dec. 6.—A message from Mr. Lloyd George read at a dinner of the English-Speaking Union here last night said that the brilliant opening of the Washington Conference and the progress made towards a great result had been like sunlight piercing an overcast and threatening sky.

Mr. Balfour, referring to the limitation of armaments, believed that success was within America's grasp. He thought that the co-operation shown in Washington was merely a prelude to other great international actions in which Great Britain and the United States would co-operate. He hoped that the two English-speaking branches would always be found on the same side.

NEXT U. S. MAIL LEAVES SATURDAY ON EMPRESS BOAT

The outbound tender to the ship with passengers and mails will leave the Jetty at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

Following the Empress of Russia the Empire State of the Pacific Mail is to sail for San Francisco by way of Japanese ports and Honolulu on Monday and the Golden State of the same line will sail next Wednesday. The Keystone State of the Admiral Line is scheduled to sail for Seattle on Tuesday. The Nanking of The China Mail will sail for San Francisco a week from today.

The next incoming mail will be received from America on the N.Y.K. steamer Kashima Maru, due here from Seattle on Friday. The Empress of Asia is due from Vancouver on Christmas Day.

SENATE UPHOLDS BRIAND IN VOTE

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Dec. 6.—The Senate today passed a vote of confidence in M. Briand by 249 votes to 12, after a speech by M. Briand in which he said that the mode of payment of German reparations, elaborated by the Reparations Commission, could only be carried out in full agreement with the Allies.

The French Government had always worked to maintain this agreement, but France must have in view the defense of her own interests.

Referring to the Washington Conference M. Briand said he was confident that he had neglected nothing to defend all the vital interests of France.

OVATION FOR BRIAND

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Dec. 6.—The Premier was to have made a statement in the Chamber today on foreign policy but he explained that the continuation of the debate on the Budget appeared to him more opportune. In spite of the opposition of several Royalist and Socialist Deputies the Chamber decided by 460 votes to 100 to continue the Budget debate, M. Briand then went to the Senate where he made a brilliant speech which was received with almost unanimous applause.

Japanese To Prepare People; Ll. George Soon May Visit The Conference In Washington

(Trans-Pacific Public Ledger— China Press Exclusive Service)

WASHINGTON, D. C. December 6.—Two sensations were created here today when it was announced that a part of the Japanese delegation had been called to Japan to prepare public opinion for the results obtained by the delegates for Japan; and also when it was announced that officials expected a spectacular coup to be executed by Lloyd George when he becomes a member of the British delegation about Christmas time.

The Japanese delegates issued a statement today stating that the acceptance of the sixty percent naval ratio program was of vital importance to their country and their sudden departure was necessary in order that the Japanese public might have the full facts of the agreements reached on the naval armaments.

Minister Shidehara is still confined to his bed but is rapidly recovering. He said today he was ready to resume his duties, but was obeying the orders of his physician in remaining quiet. Baron Kato spent several hours this afternoon in conference with Shidehara.

A bombshell was exploded in official circles when it was announced that the arrival of Lloyd George had been definitely set for Christmas time. According to the belief current amongest the delegates, the British contigent here is preparing for the execution of a spectacular coup and point to the fact that England has sent a past master in the art of diplomacy to the conference. No intimation has been given of the purpose of Lloyd George's visit but delegates are of the opinion that his efforts will center on England's stronghold,—the high seas.

Many of the committees here have been broken up by the departure of the delegates to New York for the Holiday.

Industrious Insects Of China Make Ant Idler

By Elsie McCormick

There was a poem in our third reader between the story of the Spartan boy who didn't know enough to let go of the fox that mistook him for a free-lunch counter, and the tale of the Scotch youth who got a bright idea out of a kettle. Incidentally, he was probably the first and last Scotsman who found real inspiration in a kettle, but then that wasn't what we started out to remark.

The poem in question is as well-known as a Shanghai love-affair, and the best-known line in it says, "Go to the ant, thou sluggard." To our mind, this remark proves that the verse belongs in the same class of feeble-mindedness with that Spartan boy who thought that the best way to hide a fox was to let him nibble his oesophagus. We never could see any sense in going to an ant, even when we were in the third grade, because we soon learned that ants were the most assiduous callers in the world and that all anybody has to do is to set out a sugar-bowl and wait. The only sensible theory by which we can explain the remark is that the speaker in the poem started to tell him to go somewhere stronger, but modified it because his stenographer came in just then. Personally we have noticed that when Ah Saw comes in, to say that the presses have broken down or something the staff looks at us and then says, "Oh, fudge!"

CONTEST ANTS NEW

China may not have contributed many new types of domesticated animals to the world, but we doubt if any country has supplied more domesticated insects. The foreigner who comes to China and sets up housekeeping by himself soon discovers that all the local eight-footed gentry are amiably willing to move in with him. Besides owning a cricket on the hearth, he has beetles in the flour, moths in the wardrobe, atropidae in the library, white ants in the woodwork, and possible contestants for the broad jump, high jump, and hurdles in the boudoirs. We remember an exhibit in a circus sideshow once that was labelled "Trained Fleas." It's different in China. The ones they have here don't need any training.

If the country's domesticated insects held an unpopularity contest, most of the foreign residents would try stuffing the ballot-box by voting at least twice. Despite the many qualified candidates, however, white ants would score heavily in the race for the can of insect powder that would be offered as first prize.

WHITE ANT, INSECT GOAT

What a hungry goat is to a clothes-line, white ants are to books, trunks, woodwork, and everything else that belongs in a home. They thrive principally in South China, where the graves are covered with heavy masonry built into the hillsides so that white ants won't eat the coffins. In summer, they fly in the window and leave their wings on the dining-room table; in winter they build a subway through the foundation posts and run an express service to the pantry every three minutes. Nobody in South China is likely to be haled up for breach of promise unless the lady acts very quickly, because white ants get the love-letters long before the attorneys do.

They are also fond of chewing punch-hole embroidery on winter clothes and embellishing the patterns first outlined by moths. An exasperated dweller of South China suggested that there might be a possibility of training them to bite out buttonholes, but as far as we know, nobody has put the idea on a commercial basis. White ants are the principal reason why winter clothes in South China spend the summer soldered up in tin boxes. Moth balls offer a fair protection against moths, but nobody has discovered any ant-balls. Nothing in the universe seems to give an ant indigestion, not even an unlimited diet of love-letters.

VOICE LIKE BOILER SHOP

High up on the list of the favorites in the Insects' Unpopularity Contest is the little songster known as the cicada. It has a body shaped like a breech-loading cannon, a head like a blunted period, and a voice like a buzz-saw. Its orders on the menu-card come mostly under the head of salads, but even a moderate and seemly appetite fails to compensate for its vocal delinquencies.

WAKE THE WORLD

We used to wonder who woke up the roosters, but in China we found out. It's the cicada. In the summer this insect with grand-opera ambitions serves as an alarm-clock for Chinese poultry and other residents. Cicadas are especially trained for chorus work, which is observed when the soloist sings an aria and all its friends join

New And Better World Is Waking Says Labor Rejoicing Over Pact

(Reuter's Service)

London, Dec. 7.—With the exception of the Morning Post, which still refers to the "Irish rebels," all the morning papers comment enthusiastically on the Irish agreement.

The Times says that it constitutes one of the greatest achievements in our imperial history.

The Daily Chronicle regards it as a greater thing than the victory of the Great War, because it is a rich and positive contribution to the wholesomeness of the world's politics.

The Daily Telegraph says that wherever our tongue is spoken, the news will be heard with heartfelt joy and thankfulness.

The Daily Express declares that the face of the world is changed.

The Labor organ, the Daily Herald, says it is like the waking up of a new and better world.

The Westminster Gazette points out that after seven hundred years England and Ireland are now at peace.

The newspapers are also full of praise for Mr. Lloyd George's genius, patience and statesmanship.

(Reuter's Service)

London, Dec. 6.—Lord Birkenhead announced today that Ireland would be in the same position as the great self-governing Dominions with the single reservation that she would be styled the Irish Free State.

London, Dec. 6.—Lord Birkenhead said that the terms of the instrument signed by the Sinn Fein representatives had satisfied the representatives of the British Admiralty.

He declared that the Irish under the Agreement concluded this morning recognised the necessity of paying a due proportion of the British National Debt and war expenditure, the amount to be determined by a British arbitrator, who Lord Birkenhead hoped would be a Colonial Judge.

Lord Birkenhead emphasised the unanimity of the Cabinet in hoping that Ulster would recognise that it was in the interests of Ireland and of the Empire that she should adhere to the All-Ireland Parliament, but, if Ulster refused to participate, she was entitled under the agreement to do so. Then, however, the Parliamentary arrangements made a year ago must be modified and the frontiers of Ulster rectified by a Boundary Commission.

The fidelity of the Irish Free State to King George and his heirs would be unequivocally declared in their own Constitution.

PACT ANNOUNCED

London, Dec. 6.—The Irish Agreement provides that Ireland shall have constitutional status as a Dominion. She will assume liability for the service of the public debt of the United Kingdom and towards the payment of war pensions.

The Members of Parliament of the Irish Free State will take the oath of allegiance to the Constitution of the Free State and of faithfulness to the King and his heirs and successors by law in virtue of the common citizenship of Ireland with Great Britain and her membership of the British Commonwealth of Nations.

A Parliament shall be established to govern Ireland and an Executive responsible thereto. Britain undertakes sea defence until the Free State shall undertake its own coastal defence.

The Free State pledges itself to afford the Imperial Force harbor facilities for defence purposes.

The size of the Irish military Defence Force shall not exceed the proportion to the military establishments of Britain which the population of Ireland bears of the population of Britain.

Reciprocal port facilities are provided for and also adequate compensation to Civil servants, affected by the change of Government.

A month is allowed Ulster to ask for exclusion from the Agreement. The Ulster Parliament, if excluded, will continue in its present powers and a Commission will ascertain the boundaries between the North and the rest of Ireland as far as possible in accordance with the wishes of the inhabitants.

If Ulster does not ask for exclusion, the Free State Parliament shall legislate in Northern Ireland in regard to matters in connection with which the North Ireland Parliament has at present no powers.

PEACE AT LAST

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Dec. 6.—Peace was concluded between Great Britain and Ireland last night. It was gravely feared that hostilities would be resumed this week. The whole of yesterday was passed in active negotiations and a little after two o'clock in the morning an agreement was finally reached, though the precise conditions are not yet known.

The Journal des Debats warmly congratulates the delegates of the two parties for having overcome the final obstacles and established on a new basis the union between Great Britain and Ireland.

KING IS PLEASED

(Reuter's Service)

London, Dec. 6.—The King has sent the following telegram to the Premier with reference to the Irish Agreement:

"I am overjoyed to hear the splendid news. I congratulate you with all my heart on the successful termination of the difficult and protracted negotiations which is due to the patience and conciliatory spirit you have shown throughout. I am indeed happy in some small way to have contributed by my speech at Belfast to this great achievement."

CALL PARLIAMENT

London, Dec. 6.—Parliament is to be summoned immediately to ratify the Irish Agreement.

Canada's Premier Goes To Defeat

(Reuter's Service)

Toronto, Dec. 7.—The Liberals have apparently swept Canada, according to the earliest results of the General Election. The Premier, Mr. Meighen and seven other Cabinet Ministers have been defeated.

Miss Martha Council Is Smallpox Victim

Miss Martha Priscilla Council, San Francisco girl who has been a resident of Shanghai since June, 1920, died at the Isolation Hospital yesterday morning, a victim of the smallpox epidemic now sweeping the city. Miss Council had been ill but a few days and was taken to the Hospital Monday morning. She passed away at 10:30 a.m. yesterday.

Well-known and popular, the young lady enjoyed a wide circle of friends here. She made her home with Mr. and Mrs. James MacDonell, Route des Soeurs. She was but 26 years old.

Miss Council leaves a cousin and an aunt in San Francisco. She has no other relatives.

The funeral will be held at the Bubbling Well Cemetery this afternoon at 4 o'clock. Dr. Luther Freeman will read the service.

Japan Sees Advantage Of "Four Power" Alliance

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, Dec. 6.—Apropos of the report that a Quadruple Convention is about to be concluded before long between Japan, Great Britain, the United States and France, the "Jiji" today writes:—

"The alleged Quadruple Convention is to involve the Pacific Ocean with the exception of China and India and to respect territorial rights of the high contracting parties in the Pacific, stipulating that in the event of any controversy arising in the future either the parties concerned shall meet and confer together or all the high contracting parties shall hold a joint conference with a view to solving any controversy peacefully and amicably.

"As for the Anglo-Japanese Alliance, it will be discontinued by a joint declaration on the part of Japan and Great Britain. With regard to the new Convention, the four Powers will perhaps exchange notes with one another without their ratification and immediately the notes are signed and exchanged, the Convention is to take effect."

Public opinion in Japan expresses a warm welcome towards the new Convention. In this connection, a certain diplomat of high rank states:—

"The Quadruple Convention relating to the Pacific is to be regarded as an introduction to the Association of Nations of the world. For the time being, the League of Nations will represent Europe and the Quadruple Convention the Far East.

"Inasmuch as such measures appear to be the most practicable in these days the new convention is to be looked upon as greatly significant politically and will go a long way towards the realisation of the ideal of world peace coupled with the completion of naval agreement."

Mr. Yukio Ozaki, former Minister of Justice, says that the Quadruple Convention ought to be a peace alliance, to which Japan should take the lead in agreeing.

An influential leader of the Seiyukai Party sets forth that the purports of the Quadruple Convention and the restriction of armaments, which are after all just the same, are to sweep away causes of all controversies relative to the Pacific and to secure the permanent peace not only of the Far East but also of the whole world and that the Convention in question can be taken as an improvement of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance.

WOULD HELP CHINA

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Dec. 5.—Mr. Mochizuki of the Japanese delegation to the Conference urged the appointment of a general committee to investigate the Chinese situation and to find practical methods of applying financial aid to China.

CHINA TO GAIN MUCH

London, Dec. 7.—The Daily Chronicle's Washington correspondent states that already there is much talk of the Chinese Delegation withdrawing from the Conference. The correspondent is of the opinion that such a sensational step would not be warranted by circumstances and would be an unwise policy, for China will be the chief beneficiary of the Conference.

CHINESE UNYIELDING

Paris, Dec. 7.—A telegram from Washington states that it is declared in Chinese Delegation circles that in accordance with the Government's instructions, the Delegation will withdraw from the Conference if the Sino-Japanese conversations do not bring a solution favorable to Chinese interests.

The Government has instructed the Delegation not to yield any point with regard to unconditional return of Kiaochow. The Delegation, however, has at present no intention whatever of withdrawing from the Conference.

MAY MODIFY PLAN

Washington, Dec. 5.—The impression is growing that it may be expedient to modify the ten year naval holiday to permit of the building of capital ships on a much restricted basis. The British and the Japanese feel that modification is necessary and America some-

LABOR IS WORRIED

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, Dec. 6.—The Union of industrial and labor organisations of the whole country has decided to hold a grand meeting in connection with the disarment question at Osaka for three days, beginning on the 11th instant, when the following items are expected to be submitted to debate:—

(1) Relief measures shall be devised on behalf of those, who will be thrown out of work as a consequence of the enforcement of the restriction of armaments.

(2) Productive industry shall be promoted.

(3) Road construction and other public works shall be increased.

(4) Laborers' insurance system shall be enforced.

(5) Educational expenditure shall be subsidized by national treasury.

(6) Eight-hour-labor system shall be enforced.

(7) The lowest standard of wages shall be fixed.

SEEK SENATE VIEWS

(Reuter's Special Service)

London, Dec. 6.—The proposal for a Four-Power Entente is considered to be the outgrowth of the recent suggestion made by Mr. Lloyd George in Parliament that the Washington Conference might well consider the merging of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance into an arrangement to which the United States would be a party.

The Japanese had shown an inclination to take up the proposal and the American delegates on several occasions informally mentioned it to their foreign associates. There had never, however, been a formal exchange of views, nor had it been revealed to the heads of the foreign delegations just how far the United States might be willing to go.

Neither will the American representatives discuss the question publicly, but it is known that they regard it as fraught with many complicated possibilities in every consideration of a possible treaty or international understanding to replace the Alliance, they are mindful of the possible temper of the Senate should it be asked to ratify such an agreement.

With two Senators as members of the delegation, it is assumed that, if a formal treaty were negotiated the sentiment of the Senate would first be carefully canvassed. The understanding would not require Senate confirmation, but it is conjectural how binding an agreement of that character President Harding and his plenipotentiaries would care to effect.

U. S. HALTS APPROPRIATIONS

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Dec. 6.—It is announced that preparation of the Army and Navy appropriation bills, providing funds for the fiscal year beginning July 1 next, will be postponed until the Washington Conference has threshed out the armament question.

NAVY PLAN TO GO

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Dec. 6.—The Washington Post understands that the situation at the moment at the Washington Conference can be summarised as follows:

(1). An almost certain understanding on the basis of Mr. Hughes's naval program.

(2). The naval bases in the western Pacific will not be fortified.

(3). The Anglo-Japanese Alliance will probably be abrogated.

(4). A Quadruple Entente, comprising America, Japan, Britain and France, will be concluded, proclaiming the territorial integrity of China and respect for the colonial possessions of each of the Four Powers. The only point still open to debate and doubtful is what must be understood by the territorial integrity of China and what territories exactly must be comprised herein.

The New York Tribune, which has shown itself to be remarkably well-informed, adds that Japan and Britain are inclined to demand that the naval arrangement shall take the form of a formal treaty, ratified by the Senate, so as to be guaranteed against change of attitude of another American Administration. The Journal further states that there is no fundamental objection to such a treaty.

SHANTUNG STILL ON

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Dec. 6.—Mr. Balfour returns to Washington today after attending a luncheon in his honor at the India Club. Meanwhile committee work is continuing. The Sino-Japanese deliberations in regard to Shantung are proceeding. The naval ratio position is unchanged: the delegates are still awaiting word from Tokio.

JAPAN TO CUT ARMY

(Chinese Wireless through Chung Mei)

Cavite, Dec. 2.—General Yamanashi, Japanese Minister of War, has informed the Tokio correspondent of the United Press that Japan is in favor of the general principle of gradual reduction of land armaments. The Japanese War Minister added that he could not say more than this, as the entire question of armaments is now up for discussion by the Washington Conference.

The Tokio correspondent of the United Press has received high official assurance that Japan is planning to reduce her army, perhaps as much as one half, if an agreement is reached at Washington with regard to Far Eastern affairs.

The Japanese press is urging an immediate big reduction of the army, regardless of what is done by other nations.

ASK CHINESE TO PAY

A group of Chinese, Waung Ingping, Hung Tsen-hsuen, Hsu Shao-nyien, and others, have sent circular letters to leading Chinese in Shanghai, proposing the formation of an organisation to start a movement asking the people to subscribe for payment of foreign loans. The letter says that much talk has been heard about the international control of China's finance since the Washington Conference and that the people must take up the burden of redeeming the foreign debts of the country.

One Year From Now—

it will cost you a little more than it would today to have your life insured. If you delay three, five or ten years, it will cost you considerably more. Yet the protection that you can obtain today at the lower rate is the same that you would pay more for later on.

Also, three or five years from now it may be too late. Sickness or accident may deprive your family of the valuable benefits of life insurance unless YOU take the initiative NOW. The responsibility rests with you.

We shall be pleased to advise with you at any time regarding the kind of policy best suited to your age and requirements. A request by telephone or mail will bring you full information.

in later as the merry villagers. They never start without a soloist and they always finish together on the last note. Cicada concerts are especially popular in a midsummer afternoon when weary heat sufferers are trying to take a siesta.

As might be guessed by anyone who has heard the strange perversities of Chinese music, the original inhabitants have a fondness for the cicada's repertoire. In outermost Hongkew, where the musical insects are especially abundant, Chinese youths poke into the trees with long poles moistened by a sticky mixture of glutinous rice and water. When they catch one of the concert artists, they tie a straw sash around the place where a kewpie doll wears its ruffled skirt and take it home to use as a substitute for the phonograph.

VOICELESS FEMALE! WHO?

Cicadas have a way of shedding their skins whenever they grow too tight, an accomplishment which overfed opera singers might also find convenient. Boiled with a flowering creeper and a piece of silver, these skins are served up to children as a remedy for fever and convulsions. Those who survive the treatment are guaranteed to stand everything up to a dozen boulders on the cranium applied in quick succession.

An unusual feature of the cicada concerts is that they haven't any prima donnas. All the noise is made by gentlemen, which disproves one of the most popular libels against the high-heeled sex. We don't mean that the lady cicadas have high heels, but we do imply that few males wear Maxim silencers on their vocal organs.

Less noisy than the cicada but in wrong because of its habit of eating holes in garments that look best intact is the gryllus, or household cricket. Grylluses or grylli or whatever they are hold a high place with the Chinese because of their fighting ability. Every boxing-match between crickets is accompanied by many gentlemanly side-bets, and he who swings the towel for his pet sometimes realises a heavy return on the match. Fighting crickets are carefully harbored in wicker-cages and bug-weight champions sometimes sell for as much as a hundred dollars each.

SPATTISH INSECT TOO

Spiders large enough to catch small birds, mosquitoes talented in the use of the stiletto, solitary wasps that subsidise their eggs by burying dead caterpillars with them, moths with wings as large as two hands, and lantern flies which cause the Chinese policemen of Shanghai to turn in reports of ghost fires are a few of the insects that have taken up their residence in China. There are other insects that are frequently found in hotel lobbies and at tea-parties, but these usually wear spats and are not recognised by naturalists. Besides there is a law against impaling them with pins or killing them in a bottle of cyanide.

Two Cars Are Awarded To Lt. Zee And Capt. Smith

big gathering briefly and explained the manner in which the drawing would be conducted.

He explained that one of the two larger drums contained numbers corresponding to those on subscription receipts issued by THE CHINA PRESS, which presented the Willys-Knight car, and the other large drum contained numbers corresponding with those on receipts that had been issued by THE EVENING STAR, which gave away the Dodge car.

Mr. Friedman explained that ten additional consolation prizes were being awarded with each car. In the small copper drum he explained were eleven balls numbered from one to eleven.

As the address continued the throngs in the ball room pressed closer and closer to the stage near which the drums stood. The drawn first. From THE EVENING STAR drum No. 218 was drawn and when Ball No. 1 was drawn from the small drum it was known that No. 218 had won the big prize, the Dodge car. The remaining ten prizes then were drawn in order and announcement of the prize winners was made.

After an interval of a few minutes the drawing of THE CHINA PRESS awards was begun. All of the results are given on Page 1 of THE CHINA PRESS.

'FINE CHRISTMAS BOX'

Capt. S. Smith, winner of the Dodge car presented by THE EVENING STAR, expressed the view last night that the prize represents a 'decidedly fine Christmas box.'

Captain Smith is in charge of the Ichang offices of the Szechuen Navigation Company. He said last night that he is away from Shanghai for the greater portion of the year at Ichang, but has been spending the past several weeks in Shanghai visiting at the home of his brother, Captain J. Smith. Captain Smith said he had purchased the winning ticket at THE CHINA PRESS-EVENING STAR booth one evening last week, when he and Mrs. Smith paid a visit to the Auto Show.

Captain Smith said that some time ago he had sold a car that he had, but he added that he was particularly glad to become the owner of a new Dodge car.

ZEE'S SUCCESS POPULAR

Included in a group of officers of the Shanghai Volunteer Corps who were present in uniform as guests of the Committee of the Auto Show were Lt. C. Manners, Maritime Company; Lt. J. Britto, Portuguese Company; Lt. F. Leitao, Portuguese Company; Lt. T. Date, Japanese Company; Capt. William J. Dyer, Headquarters Company; Capt. A. J. Stewart, Headquarters Company; Capt. T. Yamaguchi, Commanding the Japanese Company; Capt. C. H. Ryde, Commanding British Infantry Reserves; Lt. V. J. Holland, Field Artillery Battery; Lt. A. S. Campbell, Shanghai Scottish; Lt. S. Kikuta, Japanese Company.

When the announcement was made that Acting Captain Zee of the Chinese Company of the Volunteer Corps had won the big prize, the Willys-Knight, Captain Zee's fellow officers gave lively expression of their approval with shouts and applause.

Editors From U. S. Visiting Shanghai On Tour Of Orient

Five American members of the delegation to the World's Press conference which was recently held in Honolulu arrived in Shanghai yesterday, preparing for their return to the United States. Edwin S. Underhill, Thomas J. Blain, Ivan T. Burney, Gardiner Kline, and F. P. Hall, who are editors from cities in New York state, have registered at the Astor awaiting the arrival of other members of their party.

The newspaper men have toured Japan, Korea and a part of North China. Their impressions of life in the Orient, they say will fill many columns of space in the homeside sheets. Thomas J. Blain, who hails from Port Chester, yesterday drew two striking comparisons from his Oriental experiences.

"I was very much interested with the industry and perseverance shown by the Chinese in their work here, but from the little I have seen, China has a very long way to go before she will emerge into a well ordered country," said Mr. Blain and then continued to say that he thought China was the original "unwashed." "China needs thousands of tons of soap."

Intercollegiate Debate Tonight; S'hai v. Hangchow

Geldart and Mr. Peter Chuen. The public are cordially invited to come and listen to the debate.

Chauffeur Is Jailed For Cyclist's Death

Sentence of twelve months' imprisonment was passed by Assessor Hutchison and Magistrate Tsang of the Mixed Court yesterday on the chauffeur who ran down and killed a Chinese bicyclist on Bubbling Well Road on the evening of November 22.

In passing sentence the Court commented that there was no evidence of contributory negligence on the part of the victim such as might mitigate the guilt of the chauffeur, but in view of the latter's previous good record the Court would rule that after two months of the sentence had been served the remaining ten would be suspended.

The Court also ordered that if the sum of $500 is paid the relatives of the deceased as compensation, no civil action shall be instituted.

New River Boat Stranded At Wuhu

According to a despatch received here yesterday the China Navigation Company's new river steamer Woosung grounded on the sand bar at Wuhu on Monday and is still fast ashore following several unsuccessful attempts by passing vessels to salvage her.

The meager details available stated that the vessel was caught in an unexpected eddy and buried her keel in the bank, but is uninjured. The first class passengers were transferred to one of Jardine, Matheson and Company's steamers and brought down the river.

FEAR FRANCE IS READY TO OBJECT TO MORATORIUM

(Special To The China Press)

Paris, Dec. 2.—According to the Westminster Gazette, British financial experts do not consider a moratorium to be a practical solution of Germany's present difficulties, as the crisis would not be removed thereby, but merely postponed. They are said to have proposed to raise a four percent international reparations loan secured by all German property and subsequently guaranteed by the League of Nations, amortisation of the loan to be handled so that the total repayments can be made within 42 years of the date of issue.

The London Times lays stress on the fact that the moratorium, if granted, would not result in lowering the amount of the reparations payments, but would, on the other hand, be a means of obtaining a guarantee for these payments.

Other British papers state that a moratorium to provide for the just and fair control of German finances is only a part of the British government's plan, which aims at restoring Europe's economic equilibrium.

British official circles are apparently optimistic about the success of the London negotiations, which, however, must be approved by the International Reparations Commission. Financial circles, on the other hand, show a decidedly greater reserve, pointing out many enormous difficulties of detail that are still to be overcome.

It is anticipated that France will offer strong opposition to all reorganisation schemes, the more so as Briand, who is expected to return to Paris today, is likely to adopt a harsh and antagonistic tone towards them in order to defend, before the Chamber of Deputies, his own position, which is seriously threatened by Poincare and his followers on account of Briand's attitude at Washington.

PEOPLE NEAR WAR ZONE FLEE IRE OF THE JAPANESE

(Dalta News Agency)

Chita, Dec. 2.—The offensive of the Merkulofists in the Maritime Province has been checked. The Partisans during the last few days offered stubborn resistance. The Markulofists have been fighting under the cover of the Japanese. The ranks of he Partisans are daily increasing by the enrollment of peasants who are suffering at the hands of the Merkulofists.

From Habarovsk and Imam reports are being received to the effect that the Japanese are arming the Merkulofists. The latter supported by the Japanese are committing acts of violence over the peaceful peasants, who are escaping to the marshy forests.

In analysing the present situation in the Maritime Province, one naturally comes to the conclusion that it resembles much the year of 1919. The male population of the districts adjacent to the war zone is escaping to the hills, leaving behind in the villages only children and old people. The desertion of native places is due to the fact that the Russian population knows fully well that it will have no mercy at the hands of the Whites and the Japanese, and that the population is afraid of a recurrence of the events which followed the Japanese offensive in April 1920. Some villages have been deserted entirely.

DUTCH GENERAL WOULD ENLIST ARMY IN INDIES

(Reuter's Service)

London, Dec. 6.—The Times has published a Dutch supplement, dealing largely with the Dutch Indies, which includes an article by General Inijders, formerly Commander-in-Chief, in which he refers to the conscription of the European Dutch inhabitants of the Dutch Indies.

He says that the strength of the European force is insignificant—so the introduction of limited conscription of the native population—for the time being at least in respect to the population of Java—must follow.

The General states the material of the navy is obsolete and emstitute the main force for the defense of the Dutch Indies, as a weak East Indian navy is completely powerless for this gigantic and difficult task, but, if the plans for new construction materialise, the force to be present in East Indian waters will be fairly sufficient to prevent belligerents violating Dutch territory.

He asks whether a government with a wavering defence policy, governed by economic pressure, can be a match for the anti-militarists and disarmament bigots, who assert that the Washington Conference will make measures for the defence of the Dutch Indies superfluous.

Shanghai College Beats St. John's At Soccer, 3-0

Now Ranks As Most Likely Winner Of East China Collegiate Title

The Shanghai Baptist College assumed a leading position in the East China Intercollegiate Soccer Football tournament yesterday by their 3-0 win over the strong St. John's XI, which hitherto has been ranked as the most likely team for the collegiate championship. The game was fast and clean, with the Shanghai College team outplaying their opponents at nearly every stage.

The kick off was set for 2:45 o'clock. St. John's won the toss, and with the wind and lay of the land in their favor held the College men to an even proposition for the first 25 minutes, when Shanghai broke through for the first goal. Five minutes later a beautiful 40 yard shot by the College right wing drove the ball into the corner of the net for the second goal. The half was played out on even terms, with the score standing at 2-0 at half time.

In the second half Shanghai outplayed the St. John's team, having the ball on their territory nearly the whole time. The St. John's men when they got the ball either shot badly or delayed too long and allowed the College men to smother them or take the ball away. The third goal was scored by a rushing attack through the St. John's backs for a clean center. The final score was 3-0.

Yesterday's win by the college was somewhat of a surprise to followers of the tournament, in spite of the elevens' clean record of wins thus far in the play. They had beaten the Hangchow Christian college and the National South Eastern University teams in the early games, but had never met those elevens ranked as the contenders: St. John's, Nanyang, and Nanking.

St. John's by its wins over Nanking, Soochow and the National South Eastern U., was considered before the game yesterday as the strongest eleven in the tournament. Nanyang, which has not yet been defeated, having beaten the National University and drawn with Nanking and St. John's was given second consideration, with Nanking third. The win of the Shanghai College yesterday however upsets all of the earlier "dope," with the Yangtszepoo team now favored for the title.

Shanghai College form will be easier to figure after they have played through their scheduled game with Nanking, Saturday on the college grounds. It would appear from past scores that the college should win, for Shanghai has defeated St. John's and St. John's has defeated Nanking. The remaining College games in the schedule, those with Nanyang and Soochow also figure on form for the college. Nanyang could but draw with St. Johns, and Soochow lost to St. John by a 1-2 score.

BIG LEAGUERS CHANGE SITES OF TRAINING CAMPS

Three big league teams have already decided to change their spring training camps next year. The Boston Braves, according to an announcement made recently by Fred Mitchell, manager of the club, will not return to Galveston, and the Brooklyn Dodgers will probably go through their pre-season stunts at Miami, Fla., instead of New Orleans. No official announcement has been made to this effect, but at the headquarters of the Dodgers it was regarded as certain that the team would go to the famous Florida resort. The Cincinnati Reds have decided to train at Mineral Wells, Tex.

It has been repeatedly rumored that the Yankees would not again train at Shreveport, La., but no denial or confirmation of this report could be obtained from the officials of the club. The matter will probably be definitely settled one way or the other soon.

Fred Mitchell, in announcing that the Braves would not return to Galveston, said that the excessive moisture which the players encountered there last spring had resulted in the club's determination to seek another training camp. One rumor that was going the round of baseball circles recently was to the effect that the Yankees had decided to make their headquarters at Galveston. It was also rumored that the Yankees and the Dodgers will hook up in another spring series.

A'mn Co. Holds Its First Smoker

The American Co. S. V. C., last night gave the first of what is hoped to be a regular monthly smoker-entertainment, in the Town Hall. The affair was attended by the majority of the membership and numerous guests including many men off the U. S. S. Tracy.

The program included boxing and wrestling bouts, a special entertainment by Mr. Gilbert in magic, and vocal and musical selections. A buffet lunch with refreshments was served.

Of the boxing bouts, that between the two Hertzberg brothers, two of Mr. G. H. Parke's students of boxing in the Shanghai Public School classes furnished the feature of the card. The bouts between the bigger men were boxing exhibitions, to no definite decisions.

The American company members who had the smoker in charge last night are extending a vote of thanks and appreciation to various commercial organisations of Shanghai for their liberality in donating service, smokes and refreshments for the occasion. Particular mention was made of the B. A. T., the Chocolate Shop and the Superior Egg Products Co.

Championship Football Almost Certain New Year

Peking Marines Practically Booked; Light XI's To Meet X'mas

American football for the Christmas holidays is now practically assured, with the Shanghai light eleven going out on the field Christmas either against the American school, or the cruiser Wilmington, and the big eleven meeting the U. S. Legation Guard Marines, champions of North China, on New Year for the title of the Far Eastern Mainland.

Manager Gallop is in promising communication with the athletic officer of the Peking eleven now, and is almost in a position to promise the game. The Marines are anxious since their win over the 15th Infantry team at Tientsin for the North China title to come here and meet Shanghai. They need only the smallest help in arranging for their stay here to cinch the game.

The situation as it now stands for the big match is that the Shanghai Football Club, with its empty treasury will not be called upon to assist in the travelling expenses of the Peking team; they must merely provide sustenance for the visiting team during the week they are here. This, it is felt, among football men can be arranged easily, at the "Y," aboard one of the naval vessel in port or elsewise.

The Christmas game will have all of the lighter men in action: Smith, Bud Hewitt, Hick Hewitt, Neal, Sennett, Burgess, Eubank, Clark, Posner, Whiteman, Whitcomb, and Dunn.

The New Year game will see all of the bigger men playing: Tinkham, Hirsch, Dorrance, Stovall, Kulp, Dunn, Whitecomb, Marsden, Neprude, Clauque, Rodger, Gold, Hick Hewitt, Smith, Maloney, Eubank, Neal and perhaps others will be available for the game.

Captain Cy. Wilhoit will not be seen in action again in Shanghai uniform either at football or at baseball. Cy is leaving shortly for his new post with his company at Tientsin. Mal Maloney also is listed for a transfer to Tientsin.

Wilhoit's leaving necessitates the selection of a new captain. The question probably will be brought up before the next practice session of the candidates.

Sixteen Enter Annual Billiard Title Tourney

Among the best players who are not entered is Mr. J. W. Prince, who just now is upcountry on a hunting trip with Mr. J. F. W. Milne and Mr. A. Bookless. Mr. Prince will not return until the qualifying matches are finished.

TRAVELERS GOING ACROSS AMERICA GET CONCESSION

Visas Of Passports Of Aliens Proceeding Through U. S. No Longer Needed

Under a new ruling of the American State department aliens passing through the United States directly to foreign destinations will not be required to pay the $10 fees for visas of passports, but may obtain 'transit certificates' to be used in connection with passports on payment of a fee of $1.

The text of the new ruling which has been received here at the American Consulate is as follows:

"Aliens who are simply passing through American territory en route to a foreign destination, and who are able to furnish proof to this effect, do not require American visas This waiver does not apply to any aliens except those who are proceeding directly to their foreign destination on through tickets or who have otherwise provided or will provide for through transportation. Aliens who intend to remain in American territory, even for short periods of time other than the necessary delays in transit, are required to obtain American visas in the usual way.

"Although no American visa is required by the aliens specified they must still be in possession of passports, and they must apply to the American Consulate in the same manner as visa applicants, in order to obtain from the consular officer a 'Transit Certificate.'

"The fee to be charged for issuing this certificate is $1.

"Consular agents are not to issue 'Transit Certificates,' since the performance of this service is, as far as is practicable, to be carried out in a manner similar to that employed in the granting of visas to aliens.

"Transit certificates are to be refused to all aliens to whom consuls would otherwise summarily refuse visas without reference to the Department."

ANOTHER STUDENT MOVEMENT HERE GATHERING FORCE

The Chinese student organisations have united with other Chinese bodies to protest against any direct negotiations between China and Japan on the Shantung question and it is reported that country-wide demonstrations are being planned.

According to announcement made yesterday Shanghai student bodies will hold a parade and a mass meeting today with the support of the extensive membership of the Shanghai Street Unions.

Full support to the new movement is said to have been given at a meeting held on Monday by the Street Unions at the Shanghai Public School on Burkill Road.

A joint committee meeting of delegates of the student and labor elements at Shanghai was held last night to discuss and arrange the program of the mass meeting to be held today for the purpose of objecting to the direct parley on the Shantung question at Washington.

At the meeting, reports were made that the Sunghu Defense Commissioner has given permission for parading and also for the use of the Wu Kiung Yin, near the Shanghai-Hangchow Railway station, for the meeting. The following program has been decided upon:

Formal opening of the meeting; Salutation to National Colors; nomination of chairman; reports of chairman; chairman's reading of the proclamation; addresses by representatives of different organisations; draft of protesting messages to be sent to Washington and Peking; representatives elected to interview the different consular representatives at Shanghai; parade.

Last night there was a widespread distribution of handbills announcing the time, place and purposes of the meeting and advocating strongly a peaceful demonstration against the proposed negotiations. The handbills exhorted citizens not to strike or engage in any actions which might be construed as liable to disturb the peace and good order of the city.

Those in charge declared last night that there would be an attendance of no less than 10,000 at the meeting and in the parade today, the number including some 6,000 students.

CASTORIA
for Infants and Children.
Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent, or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent, or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium, or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy and retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse. It causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria

Physicians Recommend Castoria.

"I have used your Castoria in cases of colic in children and have found it the best medicine of its kind on the market."
J. E. SIMPSON, M. D., Chicago, Ill.

"A medicine so valuable and beneficial for children as your Castoria is deserves the highest praise. I find it in use everywhere."
J. S. ALEXANDER, M. D., Omaha, Neb.

"Have used your Castoria on various occasions in suitable cases and have found it a palatable and efficient laxative, especially in the various diseases of childhood."
CHAS. EDWARD GARDINER, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Castoria is good for children and I frequently prescribe it, and always obtain the desired result."
F. GERALD SLATTERY, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.

"I have prescribed Castoria to families for several years. It is all right. Mothers like it, for children will take it without any trouble."
C. A. WILSON, M. D., St. Louis, Mo.

"Your Castoria is a splendid remedy for children, known the world over. I use it in my practice and have no hesitancy in recommending it for the complaints of infants and children."

Conference With Peking Could Not Bring Results Declares Dr. Sun Yat-Sen

In connection with the Washington suggestion regarding a conference between North and South in China in the interests of unity for the country, Dr. Sun Yat-sen has issued a statement bitterly denouncing the present Peking government and declaring that no dealings with it could be of any value.

The statement is as follows:

A conference between North and South would be resultless, if Peking were meant by the term "North."

The present administration in Peking has long ceased to be a governing body and it survives simply because the foreign Powers continue to recognise it as the Chinese Government. The American State Department knows it to be impotent and inefficient. It is denounced by the nation. Its continued recognition by the Foreign Powers is tantamount to the imposition of a government on the Chinese people without their consent; and in a real sense, this must be viewed as a grave form of alien intervention in the domestic affairs of China.

It is no reply to urge that some body must be recognised as the Chinese Government. From February, 1912, when the Manchu emperor abdicated to October, 1913, when Yuan Shih-kai was formally inaugurated as President of the Chinese Republic, the foreign Powers steadfastly refused to accord international recognition to the then administration in Peking, although it was admittedly based on the universal consent of the Chinese people. Today, however, these same Powers insist on according international recognition to the present administration of Hsu Shih-chang, although, admittedly, it has not the slightest support of the Chinese people.

SAYS PEKING MUST GO

The first condition of unification, therefore, is the disappearance of the present administration in Peking, because national unity can only be secured through and by a national government which is based on the consent of the governed in China. This can be effected either by the foreign Powers withdrawing their recognition from Peking or by the South applying military force against Peking.

The withdrawal of foreign recognition from Peking would unify China instantly and without bloodshed. The Southwest Provinces already recognise the authority of president Sun Yat-sen's government at Canton, based as it is on the will of the people as expressed in the Chinese Constitution. And without revealing any state secret, it might be stated that most of the other provinces would immediately recognise our Government if international recognition were withdrawn from Peking.

In these circumstances, it is suggested that if the foreign Powers are sincere in their professed desire for unity in China, the right solution lies in their hands: withdraw recognition from Peking and release the national forces through which alone the real unification of the country can be achieved.

The alternative is the Northern Expedition, which is now massing its fighting forces in the South for a struggle imposed on us by the diplomacy of the Great Powers in China.

NEW TEST CASES IN RENT INCREASE DISPUTE TODAY

An application for sealing orders in the first test rent raising case was refused by the Mixed Court yesterday. The application for sealing orders was made by Messrs. Davies and Brooke, who alleged that King Yu-ching, 56 Markham Road was $97.50 in arrears in rent.

The case was heard by British Assessor Blackburn and Magistrate Yui and Mr. J. Em. Lemicre, appearing for the tenant, tendered the $97.50 in payment in court, stating that the money had been previously offered to a shroff for the landlords but had been refused. Counsel asserted that the rentals on the house had been raised from $26 to $28 and again from $28 to $32, while a witness for the landlords denied that there had been any increase in the last two years. The rent having been paid the court held that there was no further cause for dispute and the sealing orders were not granted.

Further test cases will be heard today, one being an action brought by the Tenants' Association, which asks an injunction to restrain landlords from making further rent increases. The other is an application by Chinese rent collectors for allowing increases in rentals.

HORNE ALLUDES TO ANXIETY ON PART OF FRANCE

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Dec. 6.—Sir Robert Horne, speaking at Manchester on the question of reparations and the attitude of France, said that there seemed to be some anxiety in France on the subject of the conversation between him and Dr. Rathenau.

The French seemed to fear that agreements had been concluded without them and to their detriment. He was certain that the British Government would not conclude any agreement without having duly consulted the Allies and discussed the matter with them.

By the Allies, Sir Robert Horne said, he meant not only France but all the other Allies, and concluded: "The Alliance uniting us remains as strong as possible. Nothing could be so disastrous for the whole world as the breaking of that Alliance."

LESSONS OF WAR IN NEW DEFENSE

Plan Provides First For An Efficient Staff Trained In Peace Time

NO CENTRALISED CAMPS

Foundation Work On Great Scheme Of Mobilisation Already Done

Washington, Oct. 29.—Two lessons of the world war, learned at heavy cost, are sharply emphasised in a War Department bulletin soon to be issued giving the first official picture of the new national defense structure projected in the reorganised army of the United States.

One lesson comes direct from the battlefields of France. It is that efficient staff work is vital to modern military operations, and with it goes the corrolary that staff functions cannot be learned over night.

The other comes from the war-time din and confusion of the centralised training camps at home. It is that efficient mobilisation of the nation's fighting strength can be carried out only as a decentralised process through agencies set up in times of peace.

Realisation that these lessons must be worked into the new military policy if perilous delay and costly confusion which preceded past mobilisations were to be avoided has marked the effort of the War Department. The bulletin shows that it has attempted to write regulations under the revised National Defense act that would furnish a clean cut scheme for war mobilisation without violating national traditions against militarism or creating machinery that would impose heavy burdens in peace times upon the taxpayers.

TO PROFIT BY EXPERIENCE

The project undertaken probably is the most far reaching military effort the nation has ever attempted in peace times.

The foundation work has been done. All over the country decentralised machinery is being set up capable, its designers believe, of getting the nation on a war footing with little delay and confusion. Yet it is felt that the nation at large and even the most important links in the new defense chain, the Regular Army, the National Guard and the Officers' Reserve Corps do not appreciate fully what is being done.

Col. John McA. Palmer, the officer assigned to aid Congress in framing the legislation making it all possible, and who has devoted himself to a study of the subject, was called upon to furnish the document, and his work is to go to all parts of the new army as a means of preventing misunderstanding.

Col. Palmer points out that at the conclusion of previous wars the United States scrapped all it had learned in battle and demobilised without any attempt to carry those costly lessons on to younger generations for their protection and aid in time of war. Veterans of the civil war, schooled in soldier craft, skilled in staff work and the handling of mighty forces with minimum confusion in movement and minimum losses in battle, went back to civil life, he says, and lost all touch with military matters. When the war with Spain came their knowledge was lost to the men of 1898. It was necessary to build again from the ground up, and 1917 saw this waste repeated, the bulletin asserts.

The purpose of the new scheme of welding the regulars, the National Guard and the organised reserves into the Army of the United States in peace times is defined by Col. Palmer as follows:

"It is primarily the object of our new law to perpetuate the framework of the organisation developed in the world war, so that its tremendous cost can be funded as a permanent investment for all time."

Had such a system as is now well advanced toward establishment been erected after the civil war, the officer adds, "in 1898 more divisions than were needed for the war with Spain could have begun their expansion within twenty-four hours after the declaration of hostilities."

Centralised Process Demoralising

"Mobilisation in 1917," Col. Palmer continues, "would have proceeded as a decentralisation process and not as a great centralised process, upsetting the economic life of the nation. It would not have been necessary to spend millions for great concentrated training camps or to overburden the railroads with unclassified personnel and material in order to organise and train and equip and provide officers all at the same time. Such a national organisation must have saved months in time and millions in money."

Col. Palmer points out that Stonewall Jackson alone of leaders on either side in the civil war entered the contest with knowledge of what staff work meant. He had studied Napoleon's troop orders, and in the first battle of the war, Col. Palmer says, "showed that even raw troops can stand like a stone wall if the prevalent rawness does not extend to the craftsmanship of the commander."

To meet such a situation, the new military policy imposes on the regular army the duty of training in peace times the men on whom must of necessity fall the burden of command and direction of great forces in war. From this arises the present distribution of the regulars into divisional areas which underlay the corps and army area structure. It is not expected, officers say, that more than a division ever will be brought together in peace times, but through practice in handling a divisional unit of 20,000 or so men training can be imparted, it is felt, to fit future leaders to handle corps or armies in battle.

From its role as staff college, also, comes the demand of the army for a larger proportion of officers than the actual enlisted strength of any probable regular force would require. There extra officers would play little part in the actual peace time employment of the army as such or even in a small emergency that required only the regulars to meet the nation's needs. They would be under training in staff functions and in turn be passing on their knowledge to the National Guardsmen and reserve officers and the whole scheme of keeping the country up to date in a military sense without keeping any substantial force under arms at any time rests on this provision, it is asserted.

December 7, 1921

Spot and forward bar silver were each down 1-8d. in London yesterday.

The New York price advanced to 66¼ cents, and the London-New York cross rate to 409.

The official Sterling rate today was unchanged from yesterday, the Gold Dollar rate was raised to 74, the Rupee rate to 276¼, the Franc rate was dropped to 980 and the Yen rate to 65¼.

The market opened steady this morning, with sellers of Sterling at 3-8⅛ for December, 3-7¼ for January and 3-6½ for February.

There were Gold Dollar sellers at the opening at 75¼ for December, 74¼ for January and 73 for February.

However, banks were good buyers at these rates, and the market therefore eased off considerably and closed on the easy side, with sellers of Sterling at 3-7⅛ only for December 3-7 for January and 3-6¼ for February.

The best Gold Dollar sellers at the close were offering 74¾ for December, 73½ for January and 72½ for February.

The London silver market is a seller.

The New York market, while less firm than yesterday, is still reported as being steady, with some buyers at the official quotations.

Excha ge Market

Messrs. Maitland, Fearon and Brand write as follows in their exchange circular for week ending yesterday:

Exchange:—At 36⅝d. the London price of silver is 1¼d. lower than last week. In the absence of cover our rate for T.T. on London has declined 2½d. to 3s. 7½d. If the present position continues locally, and the greater part of the silver arriving in the next six weeks, remains in Shanghai, the tendency of our market should be to go below the parity of silver. At present rates are quoted ½d. above parity. Our market closed easy.

Our stocks of Silver are reported as follows:

Sycee and Bar Silver Tls. 28,825,000, a decrease of Tls. 144,000.

Chinese and Mexican Dollars $22,540,000, an increase of $950,000.

Estimated value in Tls. 45,053,000 as against Tls. 53,207,000 held at this time last year.

ATTRACTIVE GIRLS.

The Secret of Their Power.

Not every girl can be beautiful, but all may be attractive. There is a certain beauty that does not depend on regularity of features, but is derived from the glow of health showing in cheeks and lips. A good color helps a lot in making a girl attractive, and to have a good color you must have rich red blood.

Girls owe it to themselves to encourage the full bloom of health, the figure and the carriage of a full-blooded system. To build up the blood there is one remedy that has been a household word for a generation—Dr. Williams' pink pills. They make the blood rich and red, restore the tinge of health to the cheeks, and give the quick active step and sparkling eyes that go with perfect health.

It is a recognised fact that Dr. Williams' pink pills have transformed thousands of pale anaemic invalids into healthy active girls, full of the joy of life. If you are a sufferer from anaemia follow the example of Miss Millicent Harper, of Mere Farm, near Market Drayton, England, who recently said:

"In March of 1919 I had a severe attack of influenza, from which I never seemed to recover. I lost my appetite, and became so worn out that my friends said that I was going into a decline. I had the most distressing headaches, and my whole life became an intolerable burden to me.

"At last some friends told me of the wonderful cures that had been effected by Dr. Williams' pink pills. My father got me a supply, and I commenced to take them. The first week I felt a difference in myself. My appetite came back, slowly at first, but day by day more and more. My health rapidly improved as I continued the pills, until today I feel a new girl, quite as strong as ever."

Now is the time to begin Dr. Williams' pink pills. Get a supply from any dealer; or direct from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai, price $1.50 per bottle, $8 for six bottles, post free. For men and women too.

Send a postcard today for an instructive little treatise on "The Blood and its work". It is quite free.

The Social Evil In Canton

BY ORRIN KEITH

SUCH regulation as there is of the social evil in Canton is an inheritance from the days of the Manchus. It is designed to bring in revenue rather than to restrict the extent of prostitute activity. Consequently it is about as harmful as it can well be both to its victims and those who seek their favors.

The plan is to grant a monopoly of the business for a period of four years to the highest bidder. The contract once signed, the successful bidder is free to make as large returns as he can within the very wide limits prescribed by the government. Practically the only limitation is the requirement that he confine the business to the segregated districts. These are four in number, two in the city and two on the river. Their limits are not strictly defined so that there is plenty of room for expansion.

The city houses are as a rule two, three, or even four stories high. The front part of the building is a cafe from sidewalk to roof. Here meals and drinks and sing-song girls are served amid the brilliance of electric lights, plate-glass mirrors and elaborate furniture. The larger district is at the east end of the Bund and the brilliant lighting of its long line of cafe fronts gives Canton a metropolitan aspect which is seen in no other Chinese city. With the reflection in the river it is a dazzling sight blazoning to the world the shame that lies behind it.

More picturesque than the waterfront district, however, are the two river districts. There is one at each end of the Bund. Here long lines of the gorgeous "flower-boats" are the center of the scene. These are luxuriously furnished scows with all the appointments of a high-class cafe. Each has in the background its own "kitchen-boat" and here the wealthy and prodigal sons of Canton give their bibulous feasts.

As no feast in the Orient is complete without its sing-song girls, there is a plentiful supply near at hand. Innumerable sampans, diminutive in size compared with the bulky "flower-boats," but like them gorgeously ornate, are ranged in "streets" leading off in all directions. It is here that the aquatic daughters of shame live, move, and ply their trade.

Their services are not expensive. The usual payment is under two dollars. Even of this pittance very little stays with the girls. Most of them are bought when they are very young, far too young for service as sing-song girls. They must labor and wait upon their elders as they learn their trade. At fourteen or fifteen, however, they may be sent out when the demand is large and their older sisters are all busy. Soon they become "regulars." They do what they are told and the idea that the money they receive is theirs probably occurs to few of them. They turn it over to their owners without question. Any refractoriness would be instantly punished and there would be none to protect the refractory one.

The momentum of the ancient system of dealing with this question carried it on after the revolution. The last farming-out contract was made late in 1918 so that it expires next year. The new government of Canton is making a special study of the problem with a view to handling the business in a more modern and a more scientific manner hereafter. There are various angles to it. First, there is the vested interest. This, however, will not weigh heavily with men whose great ideal is to bring their city into line with present-day thought. Then, there is the question of medical control, of which there is none under the present system. Then, there is the question of abolishing the shameful trade altogether. That brings up the eternal argument as to which is better for the community, a recognised segregated district or an unhealthy dissemination of the evil throughout the city. It seems impossible to stamp it out utterly. Then, too, there is the financial question. The present annual payment by the license holders is $518,000. This is nearly one-third of the normal revenue of the city today. It cannot be lightly dispensed with.

While the youthful city fathers are worrying their brains over this intricate problem, it is, strangely enough, in a fair way to solve itself. The unprecedented action of the Governor of Kwangtung in suppressing gambling has seriously affected the business of the underworld. To the Chinese gambling seems to be what liquor is to the European or American. The suppression of gambling in Canton seems to have had the same effect upon prostitution as the prohibition of liquor in America. The great white ways are shabby, morose, dead! The great cafes of Canton still flaunt their brilliant lights to the world. The boats of ill-fame still display their wares to those who come.

But the game is up. There is not enough patronage to make a living for one-tenth of the people who have heretofore depended upon the business. Even the flower-boats have almost ceased to try and are growing gloomy.

Almost daily come the "highest bidders" to see the Mayor and the City Commissioners and plead to have the monthly payment lowered to meet the altered conditions. They pour out their troubles and their griefs. They storm and plead. But the young fathers are inexorable. The "highest bidders" made their bed and they must lie in it. Besides, the payments are included in the city budget and are highly necessary to the maintenance of the city finances.

There is no relief in sight for the gentlemen who have battened upon the shame of little girls in the past. They must continue to pay through the nose. It is more than probable, however, that before the remaining year of the contract has run, they will throw up the whole business, and forfeit their privilege. Then the city administration will be free to deal with the problem without the complication of a "vested interest" and also to determine their policy between moral cleanliness and half a million dollars a year.

No Decision On Trade Reached With Chita

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, Dec. 3.—The conference at Dairen between the Japanese and the representatives of the Far Eastern Republic has not resulted in any decision one way or the other on the matter of the trade agreement between the two countries, according to Japanese reports from Manchuria. It is said, however, that the delegates are now considering point by point the Japanese counter proposals to the Chita demands.

Japanese circles are of the belief that this indicates that the Chita representatives are now disposed to continue with the negotiations and finish up the work of the trade agreement, without sticking to their original demand that the withdrawal of Japanese troops be a preliminary action, until which is done, there can be no conclusion on the trade agreement.

On the other hand Russian circles are not hopeful of any successful outcome to the Dairen conference, because they do not believe that the Japanese will be willing to withdraw, and they believe that the representatives of the Far Eastern Republic will consent to nothing else. There has already been considerable feeling in the Far Eastern Republic, in the National Assembly, against the conducting of negotiations with the Japanese at this time when they were also working for the opening of other trade agreements through the delegations that they sent to Washington. It is understood that a resolution was introduced into the National Assembly denouncing the conference, though in a subsequent vote the Assembly upheld the Government by a large majority.

It is pointed out that the plan for the evacuation of Siberia will have to be worked out by the Japanese and meet with the approved of the military experts of the F. E. R. who are now at Dairen, if it is agreed to sign the trade agreement, on the strength of a guarantee from Japan rather than the actual withdrawal. Japanese circles point out that evacuation, in the most favorable time of year, will take at least five months.

See London And New York With Thomas Burke And Brander Matthews

The Outer Circle: Rambles in remote London. By Thomas Burke. George H. Doran Company.

Vignettes of Manhattan: Outlines in local color. By Brander Matthews. Charles Scribner's Sons.

The proper study of mankind, according to the consensus of Mr. Pope and Mr. Venus, is—"human various." In the leaping phrase of that cunning artificer of the physical details through which the spirit moves and makes its own impression in a world which is much the same from the eighteenth century to the twentieth, in spite of many inventions and recurrent confusion of the spirit. Mr. Thomas Burke has a handy knack of continuing the insight of Mr. Pope with the craft of Mr. Venus. Deeply preoccupied for a time with Limehouse and its exotic personages' lurid colorings, he has quitted those squalors after exhibiting his great gifts as a showman of the bizarre, and refilled his readers' cup with a milder brew, but one, after all, not less drawing.

It was all by way of the motor bus. One evening in armistice week he thought to escape from the noise of revelling London and clambered atop one of them without knowing its destination. When they were finally shot off at the garage he discovered that he was at Sherrick Green, N. W., a neighborhood whose name he had never heard before. He burned with shame that he should be so lost in London. And I wondered," says he, "how far my ignorance was shared by other men who were not Sherrick Greeners. I remembered many place names, casually dismissed by those who did not live there as 'dormitories of London'—Fortis Green, Bowes Park, Strand Green, Whetstone, Harringay, Rushey Green, Ponder's End, Cyprus; and then and there I decided that those little towns must be celebrated."

At his club he found a number of friends who had never heard of this newly discovered suburb. He upbraided them; and then: "Elsewhere I found equal ignorance of those suburbs to which trams, buses and trains go by hundreds all the day. It was clear that the only people who knew them were bus drivers and the people who lived there. A few had heard of Ladywell, Harlesden, Brockley Tips, Parson's Green; but none had seen them save one man who lived at Brockley and who exceeded myself in disgust and indignation at their insular ignorance. And when I, asked him if he had ever been to Cyprus he said he couldn't afford these Mediterranean trips. When I told him that hundreds of people crossed the Thames every night to their homes in Cyprus he was facetiously incredulous. . . . London is no longer a city, it is an assembly of camps, whose members ask nothing of their neighbors. Strand Green knows nothing of the ways and thoughts of Elegant Eltham and cares less. East Sheen is deaf to the wailings of Clissold Park. Crime in one camp may draw the languid attention of camps far removed, but nothing short of this can awaken interest.

So off he went on his motor buses. It is no use to tell over the list of those fragments of London's peripheral which he visited; to share the chuckling enjoyment he found one must go with him in the book. There are high spots, of course. Such is the record of his encounter at Harringay with the cockney pedler, who carried shoe laces, studs, scarfpins, trouser buttons, ribbons, brooches, bracelets and Cavalier poetry—this last for his own indulgene. The pedler songs, some of his own composition, some out of his dowdy anthology of "Cavalier Lyrics," corrected Mr. Burke's misquotations from Sedley and spouted Campion and Randolph and Donne. At intervals he made a sale, and finally sat at meat together. "Good ole seventeenth century!" said Autolycus; "Ole John Donne—lovely things—glad you brought me to 'Arringay. I love going to new places. Yerce, I love goin' about, going into shops, too; any shops." Says Mr. Burke; "Truly a fellow of my own shape."

Mr. Burke is strong for the changing neighborhoods. At Walthamstow he found "a number of old private houses turned into shops; they have stood the change very well. Instead of bewailing their loss of gentility they seem to enter cheerily into the new estate. They make the best of things." But there is one pervasive and dominant feature of the transmogrified world which rouses his righteous wrath, and he tells you why. This offensive thing is the "cinema," in our vernacular, the "movie." He perpends:

I loathe the cinema. I loathe it because I loathe anything that pretends to be what it is not. Most inventions and enterprises show, in twenty years, a forward movement; but after twenty years the cinema is still in the street of the penny gaff, produced by office boys for office boys. Yet its promoters have the impudence to speak of it as a new art, and of their aiders and abetters as artists. It is quite right that the office boy, and his grown up equals, who like their entertainment hot and strong, should be supplied with what they like. But when the penny gaff claims for itself dignity and consideration as a new art form—just because it can pay its workers enormous salaries—then one is justified in asking it to get off its perch. It is time that somebody said what most people are thinking about this shoddy business of cameras and claptrap and the ill informed people who direct it. Consider its "artists!" . . . When one remembers the Russian Ballet and the exquisite L'Enfant Prodigue, one is appalled at the work of the simpering people who are boosted as "artists." . . . But my main objection is its effect on the child. It is robbing the child of today of the exercise of that most precious faculty—imagination. The children . . . are shown everything as it is; not for one moment are they allowed to think or give rein to fancy. . . . Words awake imagination; pictures kill it. . . . Today the child's imagiation is stultified at every turn. He is shown everything in its crude and unsatisfying reality. There is no opportunity. He is given the bare substance and robbed of the delicious, enduring shadow . . . It should be kept well away from the schoolroom; otherwise in twenty years will come an end of Imagination and of Fancy; there will be no more Lantern Bearers.

As a wandering philosopher Mr. Burke has made a magnificent beginning. He is for humans, and for life—not for a purse of gold.

Two volumes of short stories first published by Prof. Brander Matthews a generation ago are now reissued in a single book. "Vignettes of Manhattan" and "Outlines in Local Color" are clearly sketched outlines of men and women in New York during the last decade of Victoria's century. The illustrations by Mr. Smedley are exactly in key, and recall a much "slower" life than ours, as Mr. Brownell remarks in his Introduction. He further reminds us that since it was slower. "It was correspondingly fuller. People had time to devote to living." Hundreds of the "disappearing remnant" still unsmothered in this remarkable city will recall these sketches, with a flash of the old pleasure. And their workmanship is precise and accurate to the last degree. Professor Matthews exemplifies his formula.

The original manuscript of "Eben Holden," with all the author's corrections and interlineations, was recently presented by Irving Bachelier, the author, to his alma mater, St. Lawrence University. Mr. Bacheller, who was graduated from St. Lawrence in 1882, is a trustee of the university. The manuscript is written upon sheets not always uniform in size or texture in a hand sometimes microscopic but always legible, and the insertions and revisions show how the story grew. The sheets have been bound in leather, making a volume about four times the size of the printed book, and will be preserved in the library of St. Lawrence University. Mr. Bacheller is best known to the present day reading public as the author of a book on Lincoln, "The Man of the Ages."

DOWN AND OUT

(The following little account of a "Down-and-outer" is unfortunately only too true and based upon a fact.)

Boy, get me a drink,
Just one more,
Same as before.
Gosh! What a head I've got!
And my neck's hot.
It's months ago now since I went on that jag—
At Oxford we called it a Rag—
And today I'm through,
For I've lost my job,
And I'm down and out,
Just one of the mob
Of beachcombers!

Boy, get me a drink and an aspirin—
No water, just bitters
And plenty of gin,
It's the only thing that will make me forget
That I'm loaded down with sin and debt.
I came out here
With nought to fear.
I was clean!
And to me my mother dear
Was the symbol of womanhood,
All that was good.
Today—
Boy, get me a drink
And for God's sake let me forget!

* * *

Boy, get me a drink
And make it strong!
What's wrong?
Must pay?
Pass me a chit and I'll sign
And another bottle of wine.
Won't take my chit?
No!
I'm down and out
And you swine
With your wine
And caresses
Made me forget I was good.
Now you won't take my chit.
Yet you've made me rotten
With disease
If you please.
A year ago I was clean
And today—
Boy, get me a drink
And for God's sake let me forget.

* * *

But I can't forget,
For in the hours of the night
I awake
To think of what I was,
And what I am.
No drink will quench the thirst
Of my soul,
To be what I was when first
My mother sent me forth
Into the world with her blessing,
And I'm confessing
That I'm through.
I'm afraid to think!
Boy, get me a drink
And . . . . . let me forget.

SUPPRESSING LETTERS

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Sir.—In view of two editorial foot-notes, appended to letters which appeared in this morning's North China Daily News, I beg you to be good enough to publish the letter below, which was the one the North China Daily News alludes to and saw fit to suppress. The suppressed letter reads as follows:

Sir.—You are unquestionably justified in not being "seriously alarmed" at the news from Washington reporting a resolution in favor of the relinquishment of foreign extraterritorial rights in China, and it is well that the public should understand that the request for the abolition of these rights is not to be interpreted as meaning that China desires to have them abrograted at the present time. On good authority it may be stated, that not until China's judicial system has undergone a complete change will its Government press for a cancellation of these privileges. Years must elapse before such conditions can come about, but it is obvious that foreigners cannot hope forever to reside in this country as privileged persons. That none of us may like the change does not affect the justice of the ultimate abolition of the privilege; and the more foreigners capable of appreciating such a view the better it will be for themselves when the change does come.

In this connection it is comforting to see signs of a return to sanity as displayed by a total conversion of such leaders as Lord Northcliffe and Mr. Winston Churchill.

The former has made a metaphorical somersault regarding his views on Far Eastern questions, and I pray that you, Sir, as usual, will follow in The Thunderer's wake. And as Mr. Winston Churchill has just declared that the policy of those who want to extract 20,000 millions from Germany is so much "nonsensical froth," one may perhaps now hope that you will cease advocating the extraction of "every penny" due by Germany under the Versailles treaty? Mr. Churchill is a convert, the same as Lord Northcliffe.

It is a comfort to realise that influential men of the world are gradually coming to a different judgment as to who are sane and who are, well, not so sane. I am, etc.

GORDIUS NIELSEN.
Shanghai, Dec. 1.

I shall add nothing but to emphasise that if the North China Daily News regards the above letter as going beyond mere criticism of its policy, and if the letter expresses opinions to which, "rightly or wrongly," it does not desire to give publicity, its publication by you may perhaps serve a useful purpose. I am, etc.

Emden's End Is Retold By Eyewitness Now Here

A sudden twist in War's wheel of Fortune on November 9, 1914, brought fame to Cocos Island, the small Indian Ocean speck; and the same twist brought disaster to the German sea raider Emden, with a rush of interesting events to a lonely colony of "cable men."

One of the actors in that stirring drama has recently arrived in Shanghai in the person of R. A. Gowen, who has been transferred from Hongkong to the local office of the Eastern Extension Telegraph Company.

Mr. Gowen was stationed on Cocos Island during the war period. He was not only a member of the cable crew "captured" by the Germans, but was also an eye witness to the final fight between the H.M.A.S. Sydney and the raider, which ended with the Emden a mass of twisted steel reeking with the blood of the fallen German sailors.

The story of the Emden's game of hide and seek with death; and the tales of "Have you seen the Emden?" wireless calls that lured merchant ships to their doom, brought the world to its feet with admiration for the daring of the modern privateers. And the tale of the men on Cocos who were roused from the peaceful work of a lonely cable station and plunged into a scene of sudden death with a rush of swift events is worth the telling.

SMOKE ON HORIZON

"Shortly after six o'clock on the morning of November 9, we noticed smoke on the horizon," said Mr. Gowen yesterday in telling his version of the fracas. "Ten minutes later we could see a small vessel cutting through the water towards our island. We could see that she had four stacks and as the ship came closer one of them appeared to wobble in the wind."

"Something wrong in Denmark," was the opinion of the cable men who had been warned a few days previous to watch for strange vessels. The wobbling stack inspired a rush message to all stations on the cable line, "Strange ship approaching island."

War has few formalities and the strange vessel, which proved to be the Emden, proceeded to lower a pinnace and two boats of armed men. Calls were immediately rushed on the cable to London, Singapore and every available station on the cable line; and in addition the men started a small wireless set. They knew that the Emden was trying to jam their calls but were sure that at least one of the messages would get through.

"A landing party in charge of Lieut. Von Moucke came up the beach," continued Mr. Gowen. "There were three officers and forty men and in addition to their side arms they had three Maxim machine guns."

OFFICER IS COURTEOUS

The German officer in charge of the landing party was described as being very courteous, but the sailors performed their work thoroughly; smashed the delicate cable instruments and wrecked the small wireless set. When they finished they joked and talked with the men and prepared to leave the station.

In the meantime, one of the cable messages had reached the nerve center of the organisation that controlled the movements of war vessels at sea; a radio was broadcasted to all battleships in the vicinity of Cocos. The first convoy of Australian troops on their way to Egypt was passing under the guard of Australian and Japanese cruisers. These ships caught the warning message and two ships, the Australia and the Sydney, were despatched at full speed to Cocos.

EMDEN PUTS TO SEA

While the landing party were gloating over the victory on shore, Captain Von Muller on board the Emden had been warned by the sight of smoke that he was playing with fire. Hurried orders to his men were given and the Emden, almost dragging her anchor put out to sea. It was too late. The Australia and Sydney were coming head on and the Emden turned North, leaving Lieut. Von Moucke and his party to make out for themselves.

Meanwhile Lieut. Von Moucke with his party were enjoying themselves on the island, they joked with their prisoners and finally started back to their ship at nine thirty or about three hours after they had landed. A short time rowing and the three boats rounded a point on the island to find the Emden—gone.

"Back they came to the cable station," Mr. Gowen continued. "Lieut. Von Moucke, seemed just as cheerful as ever, told us we were all under arrest again and raised the German flag.

"By this time we could see the start of the firing between the Emden and the Sydney. All of us forgot for the instant that we were deadly enemies and the affair at the cable station seemed more like an incident in the grandstand at some weird game.

EMDEN OUTPOINTED

"We could hear the rolling rumble of the guns of the two fighting ships, and as we could see them disappearing over the horizon we knew that the German was getting the worst of it.

"The Sydney, being the smaller vessel, was able to maneuver very fast and outpointed the Emden, keeping her towards the island. The fight seemed more like a hunt between a wild animal at bay and two hounds attacking. The Australia played the part of the mastiff and the Sydney was like a terrier in her persistence.

"The end came at North Keeling, a small island about fifteen miles north of the cable station. The Sydney poured steel into the thin sides of the Emden, driving her finally upon the coral blocks that make up the island."

The loss of the Emden and the destruction of the supplies of the Germans had no effect on the spirits of the crew which was left at the cable station. Von Moucke held a council with his two other officers and finally called his prisoners and told them he would have to leave their peaceful atoll.

"Gentlemen," he is quoted as saying, "I am going to take the schooner Ayesha. The ship will be returned to you. However, my men will go through your quarters and take what they need in the way of clothing and food supplies. You will be repaid for whatever they take."

LEAVE ON AYESHA

The adventures of the cable men then included a wild scramble on the part of the Germans to provision their new ark. Clothing and food was commandeered, but according to Mr. Gowen the men took nothing they did not actually need. Finally the Ayesha with the German crew left.

"The Germans were just as courteous when they left as they were throughout all the time they were on the island. While they took with them a few flags and other things in the nature of trophies, we felt that they were as fine a bunch of men as we could ever meet," said Mr. Gowen, and continued, "the Ayesha finally reached Padang in Sumatra, and from there the Germans went to the Coast of Aden.

"There a number of them were killed by Arabs but Von Moucke himself reached his homeland and the Unter den Linden. The survivors of the crew which remained on board the Emden were taken on board the two Australian vessels and then taken to a prison in Colombo."

A few days after the fight the name of Cocos was sounded from every corner of the news reading world, but the cry has stilled and now only the battered skeleton of the ill-fated raider serve to remind the moderns that the spirit of the pirate is still alive in the hearts of nearly all men.

China Seeks New Bureau To Study The Yangtsze River

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Dec. 4—A joint petition from the Ministries of the Interior, Finance, Commerce and Communications and the Suiwuchu to the President asks the latter's permission for the formation of a special committee to study the conservancy of the Yangtsze. These departments proposed that they should each appoint representatives to the committee. The president is reported to have sanctioned the proposal.

MEDICAL SCHOOL WILL CARE FOR CONVALESCENTS

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, Dec. 5.—As no provision is made by the P.U.M.C. for care of hospital patients immediately after their discharge, the members of the staff are forming what is to be known as the Convalescent Hostel. This hostel supported entirely by voluntary contributions of the staff and others interested in the project will be a clearing house to which discharged Chinese patients may go until they are able to get about and take up their old trade or some new form of work.

Medical attention will not be given at the hostel but as it is to be within easy walking distance of the P.U.M.C. it will be possible for all who are staying in the hostel to go to the outpatient ward of the P.U.M.C.

The need for some such place to which discharged patients could go when their condition is such as to justify leaving the hospital but not going to work, and also in which Chinese having daily treatment could live, has long been felt, and as the work of the P.U.M.C. cannot extend beyond the hospital, the hostel is being formed as a separate and distinct project by the staff of the college.

Again and again in the past Chinese have been discharged as incapacitated by the loss of leg or arm or some such injury, so that they could not return to their former trade and were forced to a life on the street and to rely on alms for their livelihood. It has also happened again and again that patients from distant parts of the city or from outside of the city who had to have daily treatment but who could not be taken into the hospital, were forced to live on the street as no other quarters were available.

There is a very pronounced attitude on the part of Chinese innkeepers to refuse admittance to anyone who is sick or suffering in any way. They fear that the man will either die while in the inn or that at any rate he will keep away other guests and for these reasons the Chinese undergoing treatment, particularly for a maimed arm or leg, cannot find a place to live near enough the hospital to enable them to get their daily treatment.

The plans of the committee in charge of the hostel which has been appointed by the staff of the P.U.M.C., are to build conveniently near the P.U.M.C. itself a rest house for Chinese patients.

In order to carry on this work effectively a budget of $5,300 has been set for 1921-1922. Through the philanthropy funds of the P.U.M.C., some $2,015 has already been raised—a sufficient sum to get the project under way. For the running expenses of the current year about $3,000 more must therefore be secured.

The P.U.M.C. committee is under the chairmanship of Dr. T. T. Sloan with Miss Ida Pruitt acting as secretary and Mr. Philip A. Swartz as treasurer. Other members are Mrs. H. J. Smyly, Mrs. A. H. Woods, Mr. A. P. Chen, Dr. J. H. Korns, and Dr. George Vance Gorder.
